5 COMPANY OBLIGATIONS

5.2 The Company shall perform the services with reasonable skill and professionalism.

5.3 The Company will provide any and all necessary permits/licenses for minors as required by law and the Local Authority where the minor resides.

5.4 The Company will take all reasonable steps to ensure that the minors engaged will be competent to undertake the project(s) offered to them professionally but the Company will not be liable in the event that the session is not completed to the Customer's satisfaction beyond an acceptance to either rearrange the session with a different Talent or offer a maximum refund equivalent to the basic session fee.

5.5 The Company will act as a negotiator between the Customer and the Talent where there is a dispute of any nature relating to the standard of work supplied.

5.6 The Company shall comply with reasonable requests from the Customer in relation to confidentiality.

5.7 The Customer undertakes to not release the name of the Talent to any third parties without the express permission of the Company.

6 PAYMENT TERMS

6.1 Invoices raised by the Company are payable within 30 days. New customers not known to the directors of the Company will be asked to pay in full for a first project at the time of delivery.

6.2 All recordings supplied to the Customer by the Company remain the property of the Company until such a time as all monies due for said recordings are paid in full. (See also clauses 2 through 2.10 and 3.11)

6.3 The Company may terminate the rights of the Customer or the Customer's client to use any services provided by the Company in the event the Customer has failed to make payments due within 60 days of the sum being requested.

6.4 The Company may invoke clause 6.2 in the event that the Customer ceases to trade for whatever reason.

6.5 In the event of termination of rights the Customer must immediately make full payment or risk having the voice over recording pulled from public domain regardless of the inconvenience to the end client.

7 INDEMNITY

7.1 The Customer shall indemnify the Company against any claims, costs or expenses incurred by the Company which arise directly or indirectly from the Customer's breach of any of its obligations under these Terms and Conditions.

8 TERMS RELATING SPECIFICALLY TO THE COMPANY'S OBLIGATIONS TOWARDS TALENTS

8.1 The Company shall agree on a fee for the provision of services with the Talent or representative of the talent (where the talent is a minor).

8.2 The Company will not take a commission or make deductions from the fee agreed with the talent. Basic fees to talent are paid on production and acceptance of the invoice. Additional fees are paid once full remittances have been received from the client.

8.3 The Company will mark up the price agreed with the talent at a market rate determined by the Director(s). Additional fees not already included in the negotiated fee will be communicated to the talent or their representative so that further fees can be negotiated to facilitate the talent's permission for the additional rights required. Please note our minimum mark up in connection with any voiceover project offered to the talent is £75+VAT (January 2021).

8.4 In August 2018 we had our first disagreement with a parent over fees. Their argument was that we are an "agent" and must deduct a fixed percentage commission from all fees agreed with an end client. Our position is that we are not an agency and that we agree on a fee with the talent and charge a mark up to our client. This is almost always in excess of the usual 15-20% commission deducted by traditional agencies. There is a clear distinction in employment law meaning that our "mark up" means that Voiceover Kids is legally liable to pay the talent the fee we have agreed with you regardless of whether or not we receive payment from our client. The traditional agency model means your child might well not receive a payment if the end client does not pay the agency the agreed fee for whatever reason (usually going out of business). Where we have agreed on additional fees with the talent we will pay that fee regardless of whether or not our customer takes a recorded advert into the public domain. We accept that our model does not suit everyone but we regard it as fair not least because a) we do not expect your child to work for us exclusively, b) we don't make you wait for payment until we have in turn been paid and c) we work for a global base of clients, many of whom do not recognise or place any value on a UK "usage" structure regardless of where the voice is being used. As most of you are voice-over professionals, Voiceover Kids expects you to satisfy yourselves as to the correct guideline fee you should be negotiating on behalf of your child for each project. More information on fees is available free at the Gravy For the Brian rate guide.

8.5 The Company will not expect that any talent be required to work exclusively for World Voices Ltd or the separately branded Voiceover Kids but, where talent is engaged in a commercial relationship with World Voices Ltd then all efforts will be made by the Representative not to have any other third party make use of or pass off recordings and other materials originating with World Voices Ltd or Voiceover Kids as their own.

8.6 All recordings originating with or commissioned and paid for by World Voices Ltd remain the property and copyright of World Voices Ltd and must not be used as demos or in another capacity without the express permission of World Voices Ltd.

Commercial use of demos featuring material recorded or produced by World Voices Ltd may result in legal action for damages against any audio production company or agency passing off the recordings as their own intellectual property.

8.7 The talent (or in the case of minors the representative of the talent) may end the commercial relationship with World Voices Ltd in writing by email to the address on the website.

8.6 To remove the talent from the website, downloads and newsletters of World Voices Ltd the representative should contact the Company by email, requesting that a 14-day notice be given after which all commercial activities between the two parties will cease.

8.8 Permission to include the Talent on the website, featuring the talent in demos and other World Voices Ltd product is deemed to have been given by telephone conversation or emails where demos are sent as an attachment. This does not extend to digital likenesses of the talent for which express permission for company use online will be sought by the Company from the talent (or in the case of minors the representative of the talent) his permission may be withdrawn at any time making it contingent on the Company to act promptly to meet all requests for the deletion and return (where possible) of files held by the Company.

8.9 The Company may end the commercial relationship with the talent by email to the parent with no notice by removal of any demos or other work from the website.

9 FORCE MAJEURE

9.1 Neither party shall be liable for any breach of these terms and conditions where the breach is the result of events outside the party or parties' reasonable control (for example acts of God, accidents, illness, war, fire, etc).
